

HAPPY FATHER'S DAY.

I clearly recall the memories of my humble father. He was a dark-skin man and a righteous man who was majorly concerned about the welfare of others. Indeed, his inspirations, encouragements and advice are actually the small stepping stones to my endeavour in life. Nevertheless, my role model is the late Nelson Mandela, He was a social rights, politician and philanthropist, who became the first black president of the Republic of South Africa. We are inspired by the patience, wisdom and integrity with which he campaigned for peace and led his nation in their pursuit of equality and freedom. He is a great moral hero and we all could learn much from his long road of sacrifice towards personal and national liberation.

A father is someone who keeps you away from making mistakes...

He is someone who holds you, scolds you when you break the rules even though his heart breaks in silence when you get hurt.

A father is also someone who inspires you, provides for you and shines with pride when you succeed and has faith in you when you fail.

As I conclude, my expression and ideology about a father is that; A dad is not defined as the man who makes the child but rather the man who extends his hands and time to help with the child's raising and his heart to love the child through anything. Blood does not always make you a dad. Being a dad comes from the heart.
